

BRENDAN GALLO FOR PRESIDENT?

School = Eating?

Presidential candidate, Brendan Gallo made allegations that Alex Rogen's platform suggestions will increase the obesity rate among students at school. However, maybe Mr. Gallo should first review his own platform. Gallo's platform includes the addition of a food court style lunch, open lunch for all students, as well as a snack station and a Starbucks for in between classes. As if the overabundance of food is not enough, Gallo is removing TEAM time which would further increase the lunch period. Good luck raising the average IQ if more of the school day is spent eating as opposed to learning.

Where Do His Loyalties Lie?

If Brendan Gallo does not even defend his own activities, then will he defend you as President? Mr. Gallo is a member of the Quiz Bowl team, yet he willingly plans to cut Quiz Bowl to make room for other activities. Similarly, his Vice Presidential candidate, Mason Bender, took part in Physics Bowl last year, and they now plan to cut that function as well. Why take part in an activity if you feel no loyalty towards it? If he is not doing what is best for his team, do you really think he will do what is best for you?

Raising the Average IQ by Cheating?

Brendan Gallo intends to raise money for his outlandish hallway projects by encouraging students to sell their homework and projects for money. Before long, the school will consist of only a few intelligent students doing assignments and projects for classes. If this is the case, then all creativity will be lost amongst individuals. Also, when it comes time to take college entrance exams like the ACT, very few students will be prepared. If Brendan is going to proclaim his motto as being- "raising the average IQ", then he should probably encourage students to do their own work.
